

All in For Jesus

It's not every day two children lead their parents to Christ. In the case of the Fike family, it's just the way God worked.

At the invitation of a friend, 16-year-old Taylor Fike attended youth meetings at Grace Church, Wooster, Ohio (Bob Fetterhoff, pastor). Within a few weeks, he was invited to participate in a missions trip to San Francisco. His experience there helped him realize his need for a Savior, and he gave his life to Christ.

Around the same time, his younger sister Adrianna visited church with a friend. She, too, gave her life to Christ.

Taylor recalled his parents noncommittal relationship with church before the two children became Christians. Afterwards, however, "they started coming to church with me and my sister every week," he said.

"Our kids have kind of become our role models," explained Brad, their father. "They've pushed us into being more faithful in following Jesus."

Now, the entire Fike family attends Grace Church as active members.

Nick Cleveland, Grace Church's youth pastor, praised God for Taylor's decision. "[It] changed his family. It's a vision for our fellowship: disciples making disciples."

Even when it's the kids leading the parents.

This story was first published at graceconnect.us/the-children-shall-lead/. Go to graceconnect.us to subscribe to the weekly e-newsletter that shares how God is working among the people and churches of the Fellowship of Grace Brethren Churches.

GRACE
CONNECT.US

All in For Jesus

It's not every day two children lead their parents to Christ. In the case of the Fike family, it's just the way God worked.

At the invitation of a friend, 16-year-old Taylor Fike attended youth meetings at Grace Church, Wooster, Ohio (Bob Fetterhoff, pastor). Within a few weeks, he was invited to participate in a missions trip to San Francisco. His experience there helped him realize his need for a Savior, and he gave his life to Christ.

Around the same time, his younger sister Adrianna visited church with a friend. She, too, gave her life to Christ.

Taylor recalled his parents noncommittal relationship with church before the two children became Christians. Afterwards, however, "they started coming to church with me and my sister every week," he said.

"Our kids have kind of become our role models," explained Brad, their father. "They've pushed us into being more faithful in following Jesus."

Now, the entire Fike family attends Grace Church as active members.

Nick Cleveland, Grace Church's youth pastor, praised God for Taylor's decision. "[It] changed his family. It's a vision for our fellowship: disciples making disciples."

Even when it's the kids leading the parents.

This story was first published at graceconnect.us/the-children-shall-lead/. Go to graceconnect.us to subscribe to the weekly e-newsletter that shares how God is working among the people and churches of the Fellowship of Grace Brethren Churches.

GRACE
CONNECT.US

